What I did well today: * Today I SIM traded.

* Father is on death bed East Coast mixed feelings affecting total life and of course trading. What could I have done better: * Maybe taken more time off. * Definitely holding onto last trade and risking getting bumped into stops. I was in at the right time but refused to lose money on the trade. My internals were showing and behaving like the market was poised to jump... I just didn't have intuition to know the jump was in favor of my trade. Right before the push lower I would have been down by one tick in my last trade. Oh well.

What will I do tomorrow to make things better: * Clueless. I am going to read up a lot this weekend. Finally found a book on grieving that may be written in a factual rather than airy fairy way. Just not feeling it at all. OH I KNOW I'll take MONDAY off as I also have lunch meeting MONDAY, plus a birthday coming up. Great mother died right before my $15^{\text {th }}$ birthday and now my father many years later will probably do the same. I feel guilty feeling this way, but it is the way I feel.
